

LE MANDRIE

The meeting of three strong and different personalities such as Lucignola, Perricone and Nero d'Avola aged for a long time in wood would lead one to think of a complex and over-structured wine, but as you sip it, you will be struck by an enviable harmony of red fruits and balance.

|                |                                                                                                       |
|----------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Year           | 2020                                                                                                  |
| Classification | D.O.C. Sicilia Rosso da uve autoctone                                                                 |
| Tasting notes  | Typical hints of ripe berries, cherries and plums accompanied by an elegant minerality and freshness. |
| Pairings       | Traditional regional dishes, red meat dishes, cheeses and stewed fish.                                |

Profile

Cherries

Plums

Mora

Redcurrants

Almond

Structure

Full-bodied

Sweetness

Tannins

Alcohol

Contains sulphites

For The Herds, I chose an authoritative and confident face, caressed by almost liquid leaves.

